THE SANCTIFIED BAND. The trial of the Sanctified Band of Chincoteague Island was resumed in Ac-comac county court Saturday. The court house was again filled to overflowing with an anxious crowd. Joseph B. Lynch, Sarah Collins, John Collins and Wm. Chandler, the ringleaders of the band and defendants in the case, were put on the witness stand. Lynch, who is the leader of the band, gave a long account of the doctrine of his sect, and denied that they taught or encouraged immorality. He claimed to be so pure and holy that he could commit no sin. and holy that he could commit no sin. He gave an account of how the sect originated. They all belonged to the old side, or Northern Methodist church. They asked the conference for a holy sanctified preacher. The conference failed to send one, and they withdrew and organized the "Holy Sanctified Church of Chincoteague Island."

He had put his wife away, and took Sarah Collins as his fellow-worker, because he was not married to his wife by the law of God. His relations with the law of God. His relations with Sarah Collins, he said, were pure. Lynch's testimony was weak, and he was badly "rattled" by the counsel for the prosecution. Sarah Collins, Lynch's fellow worker, and the leading woman in the sect, was next examined. She is about 23 years old, with black hair and eyes, and not bad looking. Lynch is 53.

She and her husband had agreed to put each other away, because they had not been married according to God's word, which says, "Seek first the kingdom of heaven and his righteousness; and all things shall be added unto you." Sarah thinks people ought to get sauc tified before they get married; otherwise they are not married according to God's word. She denied that she or any other member of the sect taught or any other member of the sect taught or practiced immorality. She vigorously defended the Sanctified Band, and said she lived in the loveliest neighborhood she had ever known. She proved to be a bright witness, and showed no em barrassment.

Wiliam Collins, Sarah's husband, and John Chandler, the other two defendants, and eight other witnesses for the defence were examined. No new facts were brought out by them. All these witnesses, men and women, confessed that those who watched together hugged each other, but denied that they had ever done anything wrong. Bible had commanded them to salue each other with a holy kiss. Parker Bowden had gone to watch with Bloxom's wife, and Bloxom had knocked him down, and when Lynch interfered Bloxom had knocked him down, too. Bowden left, and never went to Bloxom's house again. Some of the women had had two or three fellow-workers, but only one at a time.

These men had fallen from holiness and the women ceased to work with Among the witnesses for the defence was Lynch's wife, a mild-faced woman, about 55 years old. She and Lynch had put each other away three years Her fellow-worker lives in Delaware. He comes down two or three times a year to pray, read the Bible, and study with her. She agreed to leave her husband because she was persuaded that they were not married persuaded that they were not matried according to the Scriptures. She spoke kindly of her husband, who still supports her; but the old woman said she had heard Lynch say he would have his right arm cut off before he would live with her again as man and wife. Ali these witnesses were subjected to a raking cross examination by Commonwealth's Attorney Fletcher, who drew from them many damaging confessions and contradictory statements. It appeared from the testimony that a man always took somebody's else wife for his fellow-worker, and that the woman taken was invariably younger and better looking than the one put away. The court adjourned at sunset till to-day. Ten more witnesses for the defence are to be examined.
